Active Living: Challenges and Opportunities

All people, regardless of where they live, should have the resources, be provided with opportunities, and be in an environment that facilitate and support health and well-being

Built Environment Assessment Equity Analysis

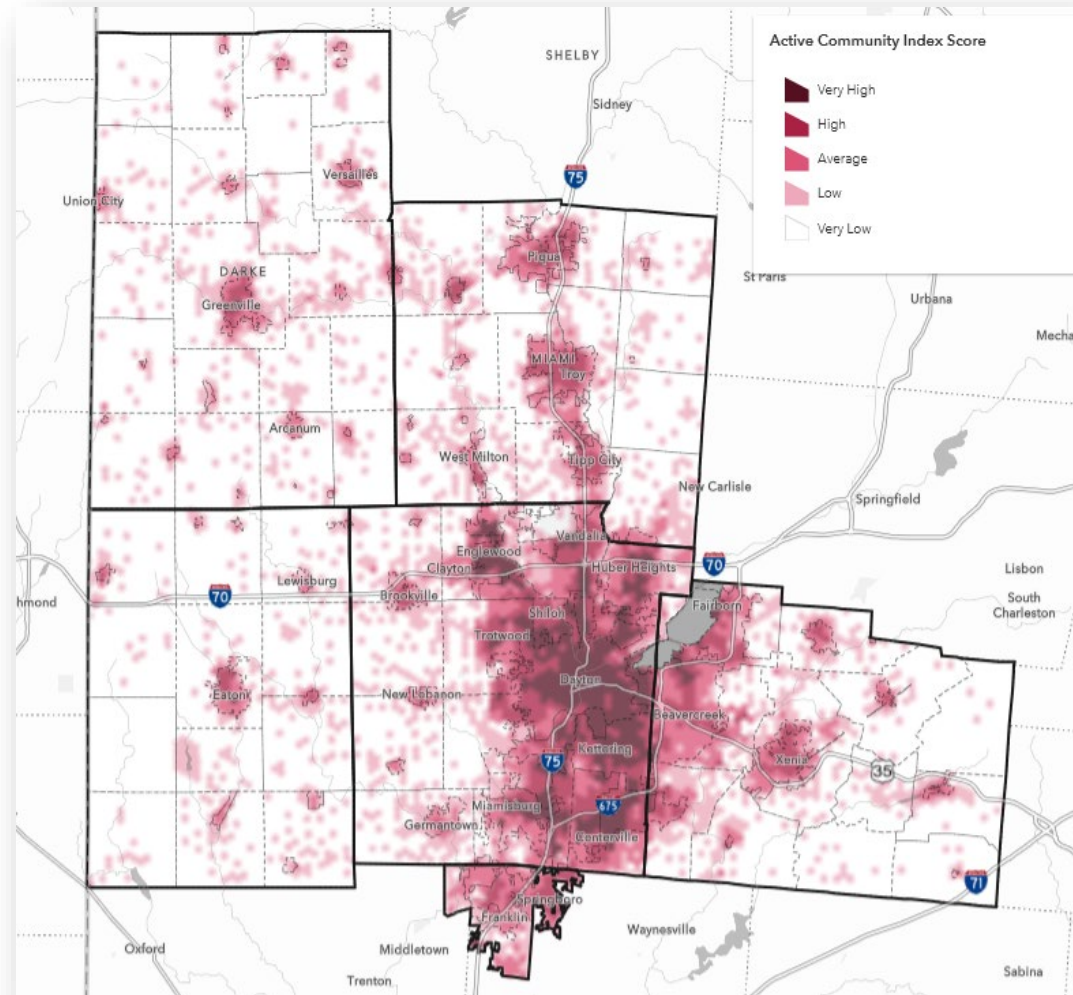

March 2023

The environments where we live, work, and play impact our health and well-being. Planning shapes our environment and planning for healthy communities is an effective way to achieve better health outcomes and promote quality of life.

Healthy communities are made up of more than just medical offices and hospitals. A healthy community is one "where all individuals have access to healthy built, social, economic, and natural environments that give them the opportunity to live to their fullest potential regardless of their race, ethnicity, gender, income, age, abilities, or other socially defined circumstances."^[1]

Achieving the goal of healthy people and communities will require elimination of existing disparities through proactive, intentional, and explicit policies and investments in people and places

Background and Resources

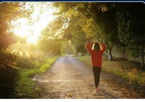

Why Plan for Health?
Planning and health are intrinsically linked. Born out of the deplorable living conditions associated with the Industrial Revolution, the practice of planning originated with a public health focus. Today, health and safety are primary tenets of planning practice. Because planning is the means by which communities manage and modify their physical space, it shapes economic, social, and environmental conditions. Planning affects the environments in which people live, work, and play. These environments can impact health in a variety of ways. Through thoughtful planning the goal of a healthy community can be achieved.

People Based Approach

Approaches to Achieving a Healthy Community
When it comes to improving health throughout the community, there are people-oriented solutions and place-based solutions. The people-oriented actions seem obvious - the food we eat, our physical activity level, or the medical care we receive - can influence our health outcomes. However, and equally as important, are place-oriented solutions. The way in which our communities are designed and the opportunities created in the places where we live, work, and play can all impact our health outcomes. Quality housing, safe transportation options, clean air and water, and access to economic opportunities are just a few examples of how place-based solutions can impact the community's health. The PLAN4Health - Miami Valley focuses on how we can use place-based actions to improve health outcomes throughout the Region.

Health Environment Assessment Equity Analysis

August 2022

There are many things that impact how well and how long we live. Beyond medical care, our health and well-being are influenced by everything from education to the environments we live, work, and play in. Collectively, these factors are called Social Determinants of Health (SDOH). SDOH are defined as "conditions in the environments in which people are born, live, learn, work, play, and age that affect a wide range of health, functioning, and quality-of-life outcomes and risks."

The Health Environment Assessment, the first project of the PLAN4Health - Miami Valley Initiative, used a SDOH model to examine conditions related to social, behavioral, built, and planning environments in the Region.

The SDOH Index Map, built from 23 indicators across 5 domains from the Health Environment Assessment, established a comprehensive baseline of existing conditions in the Miami Valley Region at the neighborhood level.

The environments where we live, work, and play impact our health and well-being. Planning shapes our environment and planning for healthy communities is an effective way to achieve better health outcomes and promote quality of life.

Healthy communities are made up of more than just medical offices and hospitals. A healthy community is one "where all individuals have access to healthy built, social, economic, and natural environments that give them the opportunity to live to their fullest potential regardless of their race, ethnicity, gender, income, age, abilities, or other socially defined circumstances."

Creating communities where healthy choices are easy choices and the built environment is conducive to active living is a means by which planning can effectively impact the health and well-being of the Region's residents. Active living isn't just about getting to the gym or going for a run. Active living is a way of life that integrates physical activity into everyday routines, such as walking to the store or biking to work or school.

The Built Environment Assessment, the second project from the PLAN4Health - Miami Valley Initiative, examined man-made physical environmental conditions for their ability to support active living. The Active Community Index (ACI) was developed for the purpose of establishing a comprehensive baseline of how amenable are each built environment to active living. As such, the ACI incorporates three (3) domains that influence active living: Land Use; Pedestrian-Friendly Environment; and Activity Infrastructure.

Ribbon-Cutting Ceremony Celebrates Completion of U.S. 35/ Woodman Drive Reconfiguration

On Thursday, September 26, the ribbon-cutting ceremony celebrated the completion of the U.S. 35 Reconfiguration project. The project marked the final phase of the U.S. 35 Corridor Upgrade in Montgomery County, significantly improved safety and traffic flow at the intersections of U.S. 35 and Linden Avenue. The reconfigured interchange, known as a Tight Urban Diamond (TUDI), included new bridge decks and the addition of sidewalks along Woodman Drive to enhance pedestrian accessibility.

Planning for the project began in 2004, and its completion represented nearly two decades of effort and collaboration between state and local agencies. Riverside played a critical role, securing $2,535,900 in Surface Transportation Program (STP) funding from MVRPC for construction in SFY2023. ODOT and Riverside contributed the remaining balance for construction.

The ceremony featured speeches from ODOT Director Jack Marchbanks, ODOT District 7 Deputy Director, Bud O'Brien, Riverside Mayor Pete Williams, and MVRPC Executive Director, Brian O. Martin delivering closing remarks. This event was also one of Director Marchbanks' final public appearances before his retirement on September 30, adding a special significance to the celebration.

Meet Our Newest MVRPC Staff Members: Megan Young and Rebecca Carr

We're excited to introduce two fantastic new staff members who have joined MVRPC in 2024. Each brings a unique background and skill set that will help further our mission of serving the Miami Valley Region.

Megan Young, Administrative Assistant

Megan officially joined the MVRPC team as a full-time member of the staff in February 2024. Megan serves in the Office of the Executive Director and is often one of the friendly faces that greets you as you arrive at various meetings hosted by MVRPC. Megan holds a Bachelor’s degree in Education from Indiana University. Before joining the agency, Megan spent several years teaching fourth grade students. Megan is organized, detailed, and welcoming and we are thrilled to have her as part of the MVRPC team. Megan resides in the Dayton area with her husband Clay and daughter Rylee. Rylee just celebrated her first birthday in September.

Rebecca Carr, Active Transportation & Environment Planner

Rebecca is the newest member of MVRPC, having joined the agency in September. Rebecca is a recent graduate of The Ohio State University with a Master’s degree in City & Regional Planning. Rebecca also holds a Bachelor’s degree in Economics from Smith University. Rebecca recently relocated to the Dayton area from Columbus, OH. Before joining MVRPC, Rebecca worked as an Associate Planner for Burton Planning Services. Rebecca enjoys data analysis and design and is a great addition to the Regional Environment & Economic Development Division.

Please join us in welcoming the newest members of the MVRPC staff.

Partnerships for Outreach with MVRPC's Rideshare and Air Quality Awareness Program

MVRPC's Rideshare Program and Air Quality Awareness Program have had a busy few months attending and supporting community events in the Region. These programs utilize opportunities to educate the community about actions they can take to reduce air pollution. Community members are provided promotional items that are not only useful but branded with the program website and phone number to explore when they have time. MVRPC uses this time to discuss commute solutions like carpool matching available on GohioCommute.com or real time Air Quality Index readings for the Region available at MiamiValleyAir.org.

Recently, the program was on-site at the City of Dayton Health and Safety Fair. This event was a new opportunity to interact with close to 800 city employees about commute resources like carpool matching, transit and bike route planning and the benefits of each. Other organizations use the program materials to extend their events. Bike Miami Valley chapters will hold bike light events to install MVRPC Rideshare Program branded bike lights (front white and red rear lights) on adult bikes to help promote safe bike commuting. Brunner Literacy Center has a supply of bike light kits to ensure that adult learners who use a bike to commute to their facility are safe and seen. Drive Electric Dayton is distributing Air Quality Awareness Program promotional items to event attendees to help spread the awareness of the impact EV's can make on the air quality and the resources available for the Region. These are just a few examples of the outreach efforts to educate the public through partnerships and events.

The MVRPC programs are here to partner with support for your events that align with the program goals of reducing carbon emissions to improve air quality. Please reach out to Laura Dent, Director of Marketing and Public Outreach, for opportunities you have in your communities – Ldent@mvrpc.org or 937.531.6542
